Leadership change at icare

The Chairman of icare Michael Carapiet today announced that Mr John Nagle had resigned as Managing Director & CEO.

John was a highly experienced executive who was pivotal to the formation of icare and led the transformation of an adversarial workers compensation scheme to one that operated with a commercial mind and social heart.

“John was central in driving the vast change across all of icare’s schemes and had an unwavering dedication to improving customer outcomes,” Mr Carapiet said.

“While we are saddened to see him go we understand his decision and wish him best in his future endeavours,” he said.

Mr Nagle said he never stopped focussing on improving outcomes for customers and was proud for the opportunity to serve the NSW community while at icare.

“Leading the transformation of icare was one of the most challenging and rewarding times of my career, and I am glad to see the benefits now starting to be realised.”

“While I am saddened to leave, I’m also proud of the people at icare who every day approach their work with passion, dedication and focus to give more for our customers and the broader NSW community,” Mr Nagle said.
